LEARNING, TEACHING, TRAINING

"Skills for high quality online education" Barcelona, Gava, Spain 13-19.06.2022

The project partners met to discuss good practice findings and to agree on a methodology for selecting good practices developed by the Bulgarian partner.

The planned activities are meant to ensure the achievement of the objectives and to increase the quality of online teaching and learning. I conducted research on online teaching at EU level to identify good practices and to identify what worked and what didn't in the process. Partner's collected six examples of good practices and one bad example of each, and presented the examples in the LTT, in which the best practices were selected. The results will be included in a booklet for teachers that will include the 30 examples of good practice selected. Teachers will thus have a benchmark on the path to follow in online teaching. Partners will develop a training program based on process facilitation, designed for teachers, through which they will acquire the digital skills and competencies needed to provide quality educational activities.
